

Living in the New New Orleans

More photos from the author

*The following photos are available on AALLNET only. For photos published with the article, please see www.aallnet.org/products/pub\_sp0703/pub\_sp0703\_New.pdf. Photos courtesy Elizabeth L. Moore.

Photos of author Elizabeth Moore's mother's house, which was hit hard by Hurricane Katrina. Above: a guest bedroom. Right: the kitchen.

Another view of the kitchen.

The dining room—amazingly the china cabinet stayed upright with the dishes and glasses all in place.

For Mardi Gras last year, author Elizabeth Moore (far left) dressed as a FEMA blue roof. The people of New Orleans have kept their humor through all the devastation.

A man dresses as a Mardi Gras Indian, an old New Orleans tradition.